New Round Of Bloodshed Is Threatened In Torn Hungary

BUDAPEST, Dec. 6 (U.P.)—Defiant calls for a "mighty" demonstration and another "total" strike today against the Soviet-backed Janos Kadar regime threatened Hungary with a new round of hopeless bloodshed.

Tension reached fever pitch in the wake of two days of near-riotous protest demonstrations by the women of Budapest under the very guns of Russian tanks and armored cars.

Hungarians were urged to demonstrate today—St. Nicholas Day—in leaflets scattered through the streets. The leaflets called also for an armed uprising but set no date.

Other posters and leaflets urged workers to walk out today in a "total" strike. Even workers in such public utilities as gas and electric power plants who remained at their posts during the previous general work stoppages were asked to strike. Expect Power Cut Off.

Shopkeepers urged citizens to buy candles, kerosene and matches in expectation all power would be cut off.

Hungarians are sick of bloodshed. They learned at heavy costs the futility of fighting Soviet tanks and armored cars with rifles, pistols and gasoline-filled bottles.

Last Reporter Is Out Of Hungary

VIENNA, Dec. 6 (U.P.)—United Press Correspondent Russell Jones, who remained in Budapest as the only American newsman after the second massive Soviet attack, got his first good night's sleep in a month Wednesday night.

Jones drove in from Budapest Wednesday night a few hours before the expiration of a midnight deadline set by the Hungarian puppet government of Janos Kadar.

The Minneapolis-born newsman was told he would be arrested unless he left Hungary by midnight.

He drove across the Austro-Hungarian border at dusk Wednesday.

"All I want to do is sleep for the next 12 hours," the exhausted Jones told colleagues when he reached Vienna. "I haven't had a good night's sleep in more than a month. And it'll take me a week to thaw out."

During his marathon Budapest assignment—Jones had been reporting around the clock from the Hungarian capital since Oct. 29—he stayed at the unheated Danube Hotel on the banks of the Danube.

Jones flies to London later today.

The veteran U.P. reporter is preparing a series of articles on the Hungarian revolution which will be distributed to United Press clients early next week.

SHIPS SUNK IN PORT SAID HARBOR

THIS MAP of the Port Said, Egypt, area shows sunken vessels that block passage in the Suez waterway. The information for this is based on the text of a French letter to Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld, dated November 19, which accuses Egypt of "sabotage" by sinking ships in the Suez Canal after the United Nations General Assembly's call for a cease-fire on Nov. 2. In the meantime, Britain announced in the U.N. General Assembly that the Suez Canal will be opened at Port Said, permitting at least 70 percent of navigation.

MTS Students Discuss Problems

The Murray Training School Student Council supervised a Student Assembly last week. The purpose of the assembly was that the students might have the opportunity to discuss any problems around the school and give suggestions for improvement of the school or any school problems.

Each class, seven through twelve, had a representative to present the respective class discussion and suggestions.

Problems discussed in the Student Assembly will be further discussed by the Student Council before any recommendations are offered to the faculty.

The Student Assembly was concluded by a pep rally led by the cheerleaders.

Burley Prices Still Holding New Highs

By United Press
State burley prices averages continued their phenomenal rise for the seventh consecutive day Wednesday, setting a new record average of $64.91 per hundred pounds for 27 markets.

None of the Kentucky markets selling Wednesday fell below the $60 mark.

Farmers sold 15,122,267 pounds for a total of $9,835,621, breaking Tuesday's previous high of $64.74.

Twelve markets either hit or soared above the $65 mark. Paris had the state high with an average of $65.59 and 419,286 pounds sold for $274,994. Others in the $65 bracket were Cynthiana, the next highest with $65.59; Lexington, Shelbyville, Springfield, Winchester, Richmond, Mount Sterling, Maysville, Lebanon, Greensburg and Carrollton.

Twelve other markets were above $64 and the state's lowest average was $60.23 at Henderson.

There were reports from several markets that the crop was being sold as fast as it is delivered and that little was available on the floors.

The Federal State Market News Service reported a leveling tendency in grade price Wednesday. A few more than half of the grades held steady with Tuesday.

Receipts of tobacco by grower associations under the government price support program were estimated at one per cent of offerings. Throughout the week, the market has been dominated by a few large offerings.

Principal offerings Wednesday consisted of leaf, lug, and flyings, with low and fair quality predominating, the news service said.

One sucker tobacco sale, scheduled to begin at Russellville today and at Franklin Friday, was postponed because of dry weather which has hampered the preparation of leaf for delivery.

Chandler Forces Lose Fight In Jefferson; Withdraw

By JAMES R. RENNEISEN
United Press Staff Correspondent
FRANKFORT, Dec. 6 (U.P.)—Gov. A. B. Chandler Wednesday withdrew his forces from the fight for control of the Democratic Party machinery in Jefferson County, but he made it plain he did not consider that his group was defeated.

The governor and his top political aides reached the decision to pull out of the reorganization fight in Jefferson County after several hours of discussion at a strategy conference.

Chandler, who kept in touch with the group in his office by telephone from Florida, said "I do not wish to control elections in Louisville and there will be no effort to seize control of the party's machinery there."

"I have no desire to assume responsibility for the selection of a Democratic ticket in Louisville and Jefferson County next year," the governor continued, "and my administration should not bear the onus of trying to cure all of the ills of poor leadership in the state's metropolitan areas which have existed over so long a time."

In the other 119 counties of the state, Chandler claimed victory for the Democratic State Central Committee and the administration forces.

He charged that the meetings in Jefferson County were conducted in such a manner that it was impossible to tell which faction was represented by more votes.

He pointed out that under

Big Evacuation Expected To Be Completed By First Of Year

By MERRIMAN SMITH
United Press White House Writer

AUGUSTA, Ga., Dec. 6 (U.P.)—The White House announced today that within a matter of days this country will begin a mass air-lift and seafair to bring 15,000 Hungarian refugees to America by the end of the year or shortly thereafter.

The refugees, in addition to the 6,500 now being moved by air through the intergovernmental committee on European migration, will be moved from Bremerhaven and Munich, subject to the expected approval of the West German government.

The White House said the combined air and sea lift will be the largest peacetime movement of its kind in history. Plans for the combined lift will be handled by the defense department.

Of the 15,000 refugees, about 5,000 will be brought to this country aboard three Navy transport ships. The first vessel is scheduled to sail from the great German port of Bremerhaven between Dec. 18 and Dec. 21, the second ship about a week later and the third ship a week following.

About 10,000 refugees will be sent to the United States by Air Force and Navy planes operating through the military air transportation service which may contract with private companies for additional air flights.

The White House said the air-lift from Munich would begin within the next few days at the rate of 200 a day, with the number progressing by about 100 a day until it reaches about 500 a day.

"This should make possible the movement out of Austria of most of the refugees who are coming by air by about the end of the year or shortly thereafter," the White House statement said.

The bulk of the 6,500 original refugees were being admitted to this country under refugee act quotas, but the 15,000 will come in under the co-called parole provision of the immigration and nationality act.

Plans Permanent Residence
The White House reiterated today that immediately after Congress convenes next month, President Eisenhower will ask that refugees admitted under the parole provision will be granted permanent residence in this country.

Details of the large peacetime evacuation of Hungarian refugees were announced shortly after the President conferred for about an hour with C. Douglas Dillon, U. S. ambassador to France.

Dillon reported that the Soviet action in Hungary made a deep and derogatory impression on the people of France, with a particularly heavy adverse impact on the Communist Party, fellow travelers and others who had generally supported the Soviet line.

Corn Growers Will Vote On December 11

Corn growers in the commonwealth will decide what kind of program they want to use for their crop in a referendum to be held December 11.

Mr. Eulis Goodwin, Chairman of the Calloway County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, has announced. The vote will be on whether growers approve the use of base acreages for their corn crop instead of acreage allotments. Corn producers will receive notice of their individual farm base acreages and allotments prior to the referendum.

Chairman Goodwin explained that if at least two-thirds of the growers voting approve the use of base acreages for corn, the national base acreage of corn to be apportioned among producers in the commercial producing area will be 51 million acres, as set by law. In this case, price support will be available in the commercial counties at a national average of $1.31 a bushel, representing 74 per cent of the October 15, 1956 corn parity price of $1.77 per bushel.

If more than one-third of the growers voting favor acreage allotments, the national corn allotment will be 37,288,889 acres for the 894-county commercial corn-producing area in 24 states, and price support will be available in the commercial counties at a national average of $1.35 per bushel, representing 77 per cent of the October 15 corn parity price.

There are no plans to offer price support for 1957 corn production which is not in compliance with acreage allotment or Soil Bank provisions.

Polls will be open from 8:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m. The voting places are as follows: Murray — ASC Office; Concord — High School; Liberty — Faxon School; Brinkley — Coldwater School; Swann — Humphrey's Store; Harris Grove, Wadesboro — Innes store at Alma; Hazel — Robert's Service Station at Midway.

Auxiliary Members Invited To House
All members of the Murray Hospital Auxiliary and their families have been invited by the Murray Rose and Garden Club and the Little Rose and Garden Club to attend the Holiday House at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Beale on December 11 from 2:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Beale live on the Coldwater Road.

Referendum For Cotton Growers Planned Tuesday

A cotton growers' referendum Tuesday will decide the fate of marketing quotas for the 1957 upland cotton crop.

This was learned from the county ASC who said all farmers engaged in upland production in 1956 can vote in the referendum. A two-thirds majority vote is necessary to continue the quota.

This voting does not concern allotments, which remain in effect for determining price support eligibility.

Voting places will be: Murray — ASC office; Concord — high school; Liberty — Faxon School; Brinkley — Coldwater School; Swann — Humphrey's Store; Harris Grove, Wadesboro — Innes Store; Almó, Hazel — Robert's Service Station, Midway. Polls open 8:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m.

Cubs Plan To Hold On To Ernie Banks According To Scheffing

By MILTON RICHMAN
United Press Sports Writer
JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — A neat-stamped for Ernie Banks was in progress between three National League clubs today but the Chicago Cubs made it plain their slugging shortstop can not be had for love or money.

The Cincinnati Redlegs already have made what they consider a "real solid offer" for Banks and the Pittsburgh Pirates and Philadelphia Phillies also were known to be interested in the right-handed, long-ball hitting shortstop.

Cincinnati's offer for Banks consisted of outfielder Wally Post and catcher Smokey Burgess, but under pressure, the Cubs probably would get center fielder Gus Bell instead of Post. Along with Banks, the Redlegs also would insist upon a pitcher, preferably big Bob Ruess.

High regard for Banks — sure, a lot of people are talking to us about Banks," admitted General Manager Roy Hamey.

Meanwhile, the Pirates were still trying to do business with the Giants. Like numerous other clubs, the Giants would like to see Thomas patrolling their outfield and Pittsburgh is after one of the Giants' left-handed pitchers and infielder Foster Castleman.

Irish Eyes Are Smiling Again This Year

Giants Expect Everything From Browns

By UNITED PRESS

The New York Giants expect the Cleveland Browns to throw everything at them Sunday except a white flag.

Cleveland will fail to win a pro-football division title this season for the first time in its 11-year history. The Giants can clinch their first Eastern Division title in the National Football League since 1946 by beating or trying the Browns at Yankee Stadium.

But Jack Lavelle, who has seen them half a dozen times this season, warned the Giants they are in for a rough day.

"I think Cleveland still has the best defensive unit in the league," Lavelle said. "The Detroit Lions may be a bit better defensively, but I wouldn't bet on it."

"You would think a team that has suffered so many injuries and lost so many close games as Cleveland has this year would be down," Lavelle said. "But they gave it everything all the way."

The Browns, who haven't had many "good bounces" from the ball this season, are picked to upset the Giants. The Giants have a 7-2-1 record while the Browns have a 4-6 mark.

Sunday's other selections: Lions (8-2) over Pittsburgh Steelers (4-6) at Detroit; Bears (7-2-1) over Cardinals (5-4) at Chicago; Redskins (5-4) over Philadelphia Eagles (3-6-1) at Washington; Forty Niners (3-6-1) over Green Bay Packers (4-5) at San Francisco; Rams (2-8) over Baltimore Colts (4-5) at Los Angeles.

General Manager Roy Hamey of the Phils also is Vice President E. J. "Buzzy" Bavasi of the Dodgers admitted they are "trying to go together" in a deal but both refused to identify the players involved. The United Press reported Wednesday, that Richie Ashburn and Furillo were the central figures under discussion and today Hamey said "we want more than Furillo for Ashburn."

Meanwhile, the Pirates were still trying to do business with the Giants. Like numerous other clubs, the Giants would like to see Thomas patrolling their outfield and Pittsburgh is after one of the Giants' left-handed pitchers and infielder Foster Castleman.

Notre Dame Wins Opening Cage Game

By TIM MORIARTY

Notre Dame's Irish eyes were smiling again today.

After suffering through the worst football season in the school's history, the "Fighting Irish" finally found something to cheer about Wednesday night when the Irish basketball team opened its season with a runaway 88-55 victory over St. Joseph (Ind.) College.

All five members of the Notre Dame starting five broke into double scoring figures against St. Joseph, with Captain John Smyth leading the way with 29 points.

The Irish gained a 45-24 lead at halftime and then let the reserves take over for most of the second half.

Flyers Impressive
Dayton and Illinois, both of whom were picked to finish among the nation's top-10 teams in the United Press pre-season ratings also scored impressive victories Wednesday night.

Dayton won its 20th game under Coach Tommy Blackburn by defeating touring Miami (Fla.) 87-48. Blackburn spent the entire second half experimenting with his reserves after the Flyers regulars opened a 26-point lead at halftime. As a result, sub forward Carmine McCarthy emerged as the high scorer with 16 points.

Illinois also built up an early lead in its opening game against Butler and then coasted to a 98-81 triumph. The Illini, who converted 11 of their first 15 field goals, attempted twice led by George Hunsale's 28 points. However, Butler's Ted Guzik wound up as the game's high scorer with 37 points on 14 field goals and nine free throws.

Marquette Ed. J. DePaul Marquette, led by Jim McCoy and Bob Walczak, battled to a 61-60 overtime squeaker over DePaul. McCoy, who scored 20 points tied the score at 54-all with a basket in the last second of regulation play and Walczak won the game with a field goal just before the end of the five-minute overtime session.

It was a high-scoring night elsewhere around the nation as Pennsylvania whipped Swarthmore, 100-85. Columbia opened its season with a 92-75 victory over CCNY. Alabama blasted Birmingham Southern 110-69, and Duke, led by Bobby Joe Harris' 26 points, trampled South Carolina, 104-76.

Other major scores: Canisius 60 Villanova 62, LaSalle 75 Albright 52, Temple 78 Muhlenberg 64, Princeton 64 Lafayette 55, Boston College 84 Rhode Island 79, Navy 78 American University 61, Southern Methodist 78 Oklahoma City 62, Texas Christian 73 Texas Tech 65.

Discrimination Says Woman

WASHINGTON — A woman protested to congressmen today that it is "just discrimination" to tax lipstick while permitting men to shave tax-free.

She said that lipstick, face powder and other cosmetics are necessities for modern women. She suggested that shaving is a sort of luxury for men.

"After all," she said, "they could wear beards."

The testimony was given by Janet Myers, publicity director for a New York cosmetics firm, before a seven-man House ways and means subcommittee. The all-male group is studying proposals for revamping excise taxes.

Miss Myers' appeal for repeal of the 10 per cent excise tax on cosmetics and other toilet goods. She said she was speaking for Cosmetic Career Women—an organization of more than 150 women executives in the toilet goods industry—and for American Women everywhere.

Mrs. Wells Purdon introduced Mrs. Ollie Brown who gave a very enjoyable program in keeping with the Christmas season. She made several beautiful Christmas arrangements giving each step from the beginning until the arrangements are ready to be displayed.

Mrs. A. C. Sanders, chairman of the department, presided over a short business meeting. During the social hour refreshments were served from the beautifully appointed table centered with an exclusive centerpiece denoting the Christmas scene. Mrs. J. I. Hosick, president of the Woman's Club, presided at the silver coffee service, and Mrs. Sanders served the delicious fruit cake.

The hostesses were Mrs. Jack Kennedy, Mrs. Holmes Ellis, Mrs. Hugh Oakley, Mrs. E. C. Parker, and Miss Ruby Smith.

Expansion Steel On The Increase

CLEVELAND — A. B. Homer, president of Bethlehem Steel Co., is raising his estimates of steel expansion needs, Steel Magazine said today.

Homer thinks a capacity of 200 million tons will be required by 1971, the weekly publication said. Present capacity is 132 million tons.

According to the Bethlehem chief, an average annual increase of more than 4.5 million tons is needed in the next 15 years, 500,000 tons more than he saw a need for a year ago.

Steel said expansion underway or authorized in the next three years amounts to 15 million tons, a mark which exceeds Homer's latest estimate.

The magazine saw the Middle East situation stimulating "rising government requirements" which will "tighten the squeeze on certain steel products in the first quarter." A boost in U.S. military requirements, amounting to $2 billion also will add to the pinch. Steel said that "in the event world political conditions continue to deteriorate, expenditures on the military account will probably be still greater."

Although the defense needs have first priority on steel production, the publication said "government controls are not likely to be stiffened in the immediate future."

Steel said the Maritime Commission is mulling over a project to build 104 tankers, which would put even greater pressure on plates and related ship steel items.

Pays To Be Sick Claims TV Emcee

By WILLIAM EWALD
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK — Jonathan Winters, alias Elwood P. Suggs, alias Willis Mumford alias B. B. Binkley alias Grandma Frickert, is convinced it pays to be sick.

Not the old-fangled sick, but the new-fashioned sick, sick sick.

"I tell you, I'm even writing an article on it. I'll call it — 'It Pays To Be Sick,'" said Winters chuckling.

"There's something about an old lady falling downstairs that breaks up people every time. You figure it. I can't. But the macabre in humor really appeals to people."

Winters, a product of Dayton, Ohio, is currently jockeying his own 15-minute evening entry on the show after serving a stretch with NBC-TV's "Comedy Hours." You also may have seen Winters on the TV programs of Garry Moore, Jack Paar and Steve Allen.

Real Life Character
The staples of his offbeat humor as such things as the travails of space men, human torpedoes or Boy Scouts bent on carving the Great Pyramid. He assumes a variety of voices and is adept at dozens of wacky sound effects.

"You know, before my face became fairly well known, I used to like to play my characters in real life," said Winters. "I'd go into a place like the Yale Club and pretend I was Willis Mumford from the Blackfoot Institute of Technology. Boy, you should have seen those Ivy Leaguers back off."

"Or, on a plane when I wanted to read, I would turn to the passenger beside me and say, 'I'm Willis Mumford and I got on at Los Angeles and I'm going to LaGuardia Airport and I will then go to happy Dale Sanitarium.' The other guy would look at me kind of strangely and shut up for the rest of the trip."

Winters, a master of the squeal, reports that the sick approach can be used to advantage in all sorts of social situations.

"You get into a cab or a barber chair and you're in a hurry, all you got to do is talk a little about the bomb," said Winters. "You look kind of pleased and chuckle—horrible thing about that bomb. It was in a box of chocolates. I understand. I've found I get very good service that way."

"Or go into a bar and order two martinis at once for yourself, wink at the bartender and whisper very confidentially, 'I'm a big tipper, you know. I never ever says that to a bartender. It mystifies him. You get very quick service and it doesn't matter whether you tip him much at all.'"

Best thing of all about the sick approach is that it keeps Winters healthy. "It's a real challenge to stay a comic or even stay in this business," he said. "So many have a hidden desire to nail a comic to the wall, they're always of you."

1/4 cup molasses
1 egg, beaten

Sift together flour, Baking Powder, salt, ginger and sugar into a mixing bowl. Cut in shortening until mixture is fine. Add molasses and egg, mix until well blended. Roll out to 1/4-inch thickness on lightly floured board. Cut into squares or rectangles. Place on ungreased cookie sheet. Bake in a 350° F. (moderate) oven about 8 to 10 minutes. Cool. Decorate to simulate Christmas cards.

Six Rules Given For Stopping Safely On Snow And Ice

CHICAGO — What's the low-down on traction and stopping ability on snow and ice? Should motorists in snow-ice affected states throw away their tire chains and rely on snow tires? What are the reliable techniques for driving safely through the more dangerous winter months?

These questions — and others — which each winter cause public confusion due to conflicting claims, misinformation or just plain wishful thinking — are answered in a new research report by the National Safety Council.

Entitled "Quit Your Skidding," the report is based on actual tests and studies by the Council's Committee on Winter Driving Hazards — a group of 32 experts embracing all fields of traffic and automotive safety. Their chief objective is to reduce the higher-than-average death and accident rates which prevail during the winter months. Their second objective is to reduce the numerous traffic jams and costly delays due to slippery surfaces and impaired visibility.

Professors A. Moyer, University of California, and A. H. Easton, University of Wisconsin, are co-chairmen of the Committee.

Their findings include the following recommendations, quoted from the new report as follows:

1. It's up to You. You know that driving conditions are less favorable during the winter. It's up to you to winterize your car, to winterize your driving techniques — and to winterize your determination to avoid accidents.

2. Have Good tires — use tire chains. Whether you use regular or snow tires, make certain that the tread has not been worn smooth. Use reinforced tire chains for deep snow, hard packed snow or ice. Chains cut stop distances about half, and give from four to seven times more traction than do regular tires. But — with regular tires or snow tires, or even with greater help of tire chains, slower than normal speeds are a must on snow and ice.

3. Keep windshield and Windows clear. Be sure that your wiper blades, heater, and defroster are operating properly. Clean snow and ice from the windshield and from all windows of your car. Ventilate to keep the inside of windows from fogging.

4. Get the "feel" of the road. Try your brakes occasionally while driving slowly and away from traffic to find out if the road is slippery. Then you can adjust speed to road and weather conditions.

5. Follow at a safe distance. Keep well back of the vehicle ahead so that you will have plenty of room to stop. Without tire chains it takes three to twelve times as far to stop on snow and ice as it does on dry pavement. You may find it hard to stop when the other fellow did.

6. Pump your brakes. The best technique for stopping quickly on snow or ice while maintaining full control of your car is a fast up-and-down pumping of your brakes, jamming and "freezing" on your brakes is almost certain to lock your wheels. This is likely to throw your car into an uncontrollable and dangerous skid.

CHAPTER 21
The next evening Casson was in the dining room when Perry got there and, as soon as Perry entered, he acted. He waved at Perry and insisted on buying him a pint. "Let's go and sit down," he said. "I've got some things to show you. They'll interest you." He sat down and carefully opened the flat paper package which he was carrying. "They're engravings of scenes in the Peninsular War. Brutal, but wonderfully drawn. The grotesque in art! Look at this." Perry glanced at the print without interest and started to drink his beer. Casson had also brought some of his architectural photographs, and these interested Perry more. Casson led the conversation round to the influence of Greek and Roman originals on English architecture and Perry became almost animated, even confessing his desire to visit Rome, a desire which he might have fulfilled, he said, if only he spoke a foreign language. He recovered himself from this admission of failure by shifting hurriedly to an explanation of his view that specialized knowledge was of no consequence since the connoisseur — by a traction he mispronounced the word — knew instinctively what was right and what was wrong. He himself never bothered with specialized learning. Casson agreed heartily. "Furthermore," said Casson, smiling to himself at his own hyperbole, "specialization is actually dangerous. You will of course remember what Clive Bell wrote?" Perry made an inconclusive motion of his head. "He wrote that fine states of mind — that's to say, exultation and fully vivid states of feeling — are the aim of civilized desire. If that's so, then you must be quite ruthless in your pursuit of those fine states. You agree?" Perry not only agreed but leaped upon the theory with some fervor. But, as he launched into his own disquisition, Casson drained his tankard and looked pointedly at its emptiness. Perry hesitated, then rose to his feet. "I should wish to buy a drink," he said. "That's decent of you," Casson replied. He brought two pints back to them. "You think that one must really be ruthless in winning those states of mind you were talking about?" he asked eagerly.

What started Perry on his life of crime? Don't miss Chapter 22 here tomorrow.

Navy Has A Problem With "Deep Freeze"

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — The Navy's "Deep Freeze" operation in Antarctica is not without its problems. One of the most serious is the lack of space for the food.

Down there all you have is a hole in the snow and put the food in it. It's a little bit of a problem.

But the Navy's subsistence officer says the food is getting better. It's getting better.

So the men who man the pines have a problem. Foods, such as fruits and vegetables, which are not picked or dug, are what the boys want.

The NSO says that they get it, but it takes doing.

Meats Frozen "Musts" — Meats are among the frozen "musts." They must be kept frozen until they are ready to cook. The Navy wants them to be as fresh as possible.

So aboard ship, the commissary officer must know how much frozen space he has. And he must be that space to the best advantage. How does the commissary officer go about stocking?

Well, that's a little complicated.

Unless he got his know-how from practice, he runs to Vol. IV of the Busanda Manual, Chapter 94, Para. 4117, dated 2 Aug. 1956.

It lists the normal stocking requirements, including the cubic measurement of space for the different foods.

Storage Big Problem — But what the commissary officer is most concerned about is the storage of frozen food. Say the vessel is supposed to be out 30 days. How about storm and other things that can cause delay. So the officer doubles his order and then worries about what to do with the extras if the ship makes the trip on schedule.

According to the NSO, that's the part that makes the commissary officer start to "tuck in." Maybe there is a little room in the freeze box where he can "tuck in" some boneless beef some fish file, a few hams, a few slabs of bacon, in recesses here and there.

If any is left over it will get used later on. Meanwhile nobody starves on the way.

Guerrillas Hold Out In Hungary

By RUSSELL JONES
United Press Staff Correspondent

TUKAJ (Tokay), Hungary — More than 1,500 young Hungarian guerrillas are battling the Russians in the forest along the eastern frontier, near this famous old wine town, it was reported today.

Sources in contact with the guerrillas said most of the unvanquished freedom fighters are students from Sarospatok College in nearby Satorajauhely. The school was founded by the Protestants and formerly specialized in the study of English, Anglo-American history and similar subjects.

Rebels Well Armed — The young Hungarians were reported to have plenty of food, small arms and ammunition, and two Russian 85-mm. anti-tank guns that they stole from their crews after getting the Soviet gunners drunk.

The guerrillas have scant ammunition for their anti-tank guns, the sources said, but the knowledge that they have them has been enough so far to deter the Russians from attempting to conquer the wild, broken country.

They control the countryside so completely, the sources said, that the Russians travel only on the main roads — and only during the day.

The story of the guerrillas in the border forests was the most detailed account of continued resistance to the Russians heard by western correspondents on a 320-mile circle tour of northern and eastern Hungary.

Soviet Arms Seen — Soviet roadblocks, backed up by tanks, armored cars, artillery and machine guns, made it impossible to visit the area where the guerrillas are said to be operating.

There also have been reports of fighting in the hills near Miskolc, but these also are unverified. Soviet patrols in the Miskolc area were evidently on the alert, but there was no solid indication of large-scale fighting in the area.

The towns we visited on our tour — Mezőkövesd, Miskolc, Tuka, Nyiregyhaza, Debrecen and dozens of lesser communities — suffered little battle damage during the Hungarian revolt, but they presented ample evidence of anti-Soviet feeling.

Russian monuments in town after town had been smashed to bits, red stars had vanished and Communist offices were closed. Each town had its revolutionary council, in contact with the national council in Budapest.

Soldiers Hate Reds — Many of the Hungarian soldiers we encountered on the trip were anti-Russian as their civilian compatriots. At one roadblock manned jointly by Russians and Hungarians, we handed our identity papers to a Soviet sentry. A Hungarian soldier took them out of his hand.

"These stupid ——— can't understand those," he said blandly in Hungarian. "They can't even read."

After examining our papers, the Hungarian waved us on, but the Russian soldier still stood in front of the car — not trying to stop us, just standing there.

"Run over the stupid slob," the Hungarian said.

NO SMOKE — DANVILLE, Va. — Pittsylvania County moonshiners, who have had trouble for years hiding their stills because of the tangle of smoking curling up from the fire, have finally learned. County officers stumbled on an 800-gallon still this fall operated on bottled kitchen gas, which doesn't smoke as it burns.

Any one desiring to make a contribution for this purpose may bring or send your remittance to the Red Cross Office, County Court House, Murray, Ky. It should be designated for the Hungarian appeal.

Phone Call Frightens Stranger — SUNLAND, Calif. UP — Grant L. Gould was warned over the phone Monday, "you're about to be robbed." A stranger soon appeared at the door, told Gould his car had broken down and asked to use the phone. "Sure," said Gould. "Funny thing, but I've just been warned that I'm about to be robbed." Gould told police the stranger turned pale and fled.

ONLY PIE IN THE FACE — WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. UP — Police were horrified Monday when they pulled Harold Dornath from his overturned bakery truck. His face appeared to be a mass of blood. Close inspection revealed it was only cherry pie.

Oldest Stagehand

DENNIS RYAN, 86, Laurelton, Long Island, N.Y., gets a helping hand from Rockette Carol Harbich, Newark, N.J., on his last day of work at New York's Radio City Music Hall. Ryan, who helped prepare the Music Hall stage for its opening in 1929, can look back on a career of 64 years in show business that included work with such luminaries as Pavlova, Buffalo Bill, Gertrude Lawrence and Anna Held.

New Round ...

future developments now that hopes for assistance from the United Nations were killed by the Budapest government.

Kadar's rejection of the proposed visit by U. N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld could be the final straw. The Hungarians were pinning almost their last hopes on him.

Radio Announces Rejection — The announcement broadcast by radio Budapest made it clear to Hungarians how little they could expect from the puppet regime.

Mr. Hammarskjöld will not visit Budapest on Dec. 16 because the date of the visit is not agreeable to the Hungarian government, the official communique said. It did not say what date would be acceptable.

The still defiant temper of the people was reflected in the mood of the women who participated in Wednesday's demonstrations outside the United States and British legations in Budapest.

"Out with Kadar! Out with the traitors! Where is Imre Nagy, exiled former premier?" they screamed.

CARTHUSIAN MONASTERY — CHARLEMONT, Mass. — The Order of Carthusian Monks, which owns 1,300 acres here and in Whittingham, Vt., will erect the order's first monastery in the western hemisphere north of the Massachusetts-Vermont border near here. There are now four Carthusian fathers and six brothers in the United States.

BUDAPEST SHATTERED IN FACE OF WINTER RIGORS

THESE LATEST PHOTOS to come out of Hungary give some idea of the desperate labors required to get Budapest back in shape for the rigors of winter. Food and fuel are at a premium. Hardly a window is left unbroken in the aftermath of the rebellion against Soviet rule. (International)
